

YUMA LAKES RESORT

Soak in the blue skies and sun that shines 310 days a year at this Arizona resort

Minutes from Mexico, this tranquil location is the perfect place to forget your cares. Park your RV among shade trees and relax, or take your fishing gear to the resort's stocked lake and catch dinner.

"Yuma Lakes Resort is our largest park for snowbirds who want to go across the border," says Randy Wright, Director of Research and Development. "Snowbirds can pick up their prescription drugs or visit a doctor or dentist. We have a large number of guests who use Yuma Lakes Resort predominately for that. In addition, Yuma is considered the lettuce capital of the world. If you visit in February, you'll be treated to a parade and festival and meet the lettuce queen."

It's easy to make a day trip into Mexico. You can immerse yourself in the colorful culture, go shopping, or take in the sights.

You'll also want to explore all that Yuma Lakes Resort has to offer. Relax at the spacious clubhouse to meet new and old friends. From the planned breakfasts and dinners to the ice-cream socials, there's always something inviting to do including bingo, cards, and pool tournaments.

Slip into the pool to cool off. It's heated so it's a perfect way to enjoy those cooler fall and winter days. Relax in the Jacuzzi. If you prefer something a little more exerting, go for a hike. Just outside the gates, you'll find miles of mountain and desert trails. It's also a great place to ride an ATV. Keep an eye out for desert big horn sheep. Play shuffleboard, bocce ball, or miniature golf—all secure knowing there's 24-hour security.

It's not just snowbirds that flock to Yuma—nearly 400 species of birds make this a seasonal stop or year-round home because of the area's diverse habitat.
