Cypress Camping Resort is poised on the quiet and peaceful Intercoastal Waterway in beautiful Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, and offers first-class amenities to please everyone in the family. Built from the ground up in 2012, Cypress Camping Resort has become a family-oriented destination. This is partly due to the fact the resort is a family-run tight-knit organization.

According to Fred Neely, marketing director, owners Kenneth and Laura Hucks create a friendly atmosphere where the staff makes it a practice to know all the members on a first-name basis.

Although the friendliness is refreshing, you'll also have access to dozens of modern amenities. These include paved campsites, free Wi-Fi, adult and children's pools, 24-hour security, eco-friendly bathhouses, waterway swimming area, nature trails, conference center, game room, and seasonal weekly planned activities. There are also seven cabins and two bunkhouses for rent. Another unique aspect of this resort is that it's one of the first Intracoastal Waterway access resorts in the Myrtle Beach area.

If you like all things water, take advantage of pedal boats, kayaks, pontoon boat rentals, and fishing. Access the Intercoastal Waterway by using the resort's boat landing and resort boat valet service. For the more active visitor, play basketball and softball. Or you can just kick back at your spacious site and watch the many yachts cruise by the resort on the waterway. The peace and beauty of the resort means Cypress Camping Resort will be your beach destination for years to come.

Cypress Camping Resort is close to many area parks, historical attractions, and world class entertainment venues like Myrtle Beach SkyWheel, Brookgreen Gardens, Wonder Works, Alabama Theatre, Legends in Concert, Medieval Times; the list goes on and on. Need a beach fix? Every day, the resort offers a shuttle service to the shores of the Grand Strand on the Atlantic Ocean.
